The pandemic has made many of us re-engage with our gardens and outdoor spaces, resulting in a huge surge in demand for garden designers. Among thousands of professional designers, we have chosen 50 who we think represent the top echelons of talent in the UK, each with an impressive portfolio of private gardens to their name. From promising newcomers to world-renowned figures, these designers are united by their drive for excellence and by their collective desire to work towards a better future for the planet.

JANE BROWN

Having designed gardens for over 20 years, Jane Brown works all over the UK and abroad. 'I tend to avoid over-fussy or ornate styles and like to keep things natural,' she says. Her aim is to create beautiful, timeless gardens where her clients can relax. Carefully considering the proportions of different parts of the garden is the most crucial part of her design process. One of her current projects is a five-acre garden in Sussex, which includes two wildlife ponds that are connected by a weir. janebrown.co.uk
